

Bluff Road Medical - Maternity Doctors

Bluff Road Medical has a proud tradition of providing maternity services to our community, having been involved with thousands of mothers and babies at our practice. We work jointly with the Royal Women's at Sandringham Hospital where your baby can be born, and this is known as 'Shared Care'. Following the birth of your baby, Bluff Road Medical has lactation (breastfeeding) services from a leading GP lactation consultant. The Maternity Doctors will look after your social and medical wellbeing whilst also paying attention to your newborn child. Our nursing staff offer immunisation services, ready for childcare and school.

Dr Joan San MBBS, FRACGP, DRANZCOG. Shared Care Provider

Joan graduated from the University of Melbourne in 1999. She undertook her residency years at St Vincent's Hospital before further hospital work in critical care at Box Hill Hospital.

Joan moved to Northeast Victoria to complete her Post Graduate Obstetric Diploma while working as a GP obstetrician in Mansfield and Mount Buller. She joined the Bluff Road Medical team in 2007. Joan loves spending time with her young children and enjoying the outdoors.

Dr Kate Exon MBBS (Hons.), FRACGP, DRANZCOG. Shared Care Provider

Kate studied Medicine at the University of New South Wales, studying in both Sydney and Wagga Wagga. After graduating in 2010 she moved to Melbourne and spent four years working at Monash Health, during which time completed a Diploma of Obstetrics and Gynaecology.

Kate is interested in all aspects of medicine, especially women's health and antenatal care. She has also spent time working in emergency medicine in the Northern Territory. Her other interests include jogging, anything French, travel and spending time with family and friends.

Dr Angela Keen MBBS (Hons), BMBS, FRACGP, DRANZCOG. Shared Care Provider

Angela studied Biomedical Science at Monash after graduating from Star of the Sea College. She later studied medicine at Melbourne University and graduated in 2009 and loves the variety of roles that General Practice offers. She holds a Diploma of Obstetrics and Gynaecology which adds to her interest in Paediatrics.

Her interests outside medicine include playing netball, baking and spending time with her young children.
